White House Whitewash.

We give below the receipt for making the whitewash used at Washington on the White House:

"Take half a bushel, say, of nice unslacked lime, slack it with boiling water, covering it during the process to keep in the steam. Strain the liquid through a fine strainer, and add to it a peck of clean salt, previously well dissolved in warm water; three pounds of ground rice, boiled to a thin paste, stirred in boiling hot; half a pound of powdered Spanish whiting, and a pound of clean glue, which has been previously dissolved by first soaking it well, and then hanging it over a slow fire, in a small kettle, within a large one filled with water. Add five gallons of hot water to the whole mixture; stir it well, and let it stand a few days covered from the dirt. It should be put on quite hot; for this purpose it can be kept in a kettle on a portable furnace. It is said that about one pint of this mixture will cover a square yard upon the outside of a house, if properly applied. It answers as well as oil paint for wood, brick or stone, and is much cheaper. It retains its brilliancy for many years. There is nothing of the kind that will compare with it for covering either inside or outside walls. Coloring matter may be put in, and made of any shade you like. Spanish-brown stirred in will make red or pink more or less deep, according to the quantity. A delicate tinge of this is very pretty for inside walls. Finely pulverized common clay, well mixed with the Spanish-brown before it is stirred into the mixture, makes a lilac color. Lamp black in moderate quantities makes a slate color, very suitable for the outside of buildings. Lamp black and Spanish-brown mixed together produce a reddish stone color. Yellow ochre stirred in makes a yellow wash; but chrome goes further and makes a color generally esteemed prettier. In all these cases the darkness of the shade will, of course, be determined by the quantity of coloring matter used. It is difficult to make a rule, because tastes are very different; it would be best to try experiments on a shingle and let it dry. Green, it is said, must not be mixed with lime; the lime destroys the color, and the color has an effect on the whitewash, which makes it crack and peel. When walls have been badly smoked and you wish to have them a clean white, it is well to squeeze indigo plentifully through a bag into the water you use, before it is stirred in the whole mixture. If a larger quantity than five gallons is wanted, the proportions should be observed."

Truth Stranger Than Fiction.

In the year 1865, Elias H. D. Whitt living in Elliott county left his home for the "Far West" intending to make that his future home. After being gone a year or more his friends failed to hear from him so long that he was supposed to be dead, and his step-father, Alfred Robinson, took out letters of administration upon his estate from the Elliott County court and went on to wind up his estate. To the joy and utter astonishment of his mother and friends he returned a few weeks since, finding that his estate had been wound up, made a settlement with his administrator, was thoroughly satisfied with the manner in which his estate had been wound up and his receipt in full and had an order made discharging him from further duties as administrator.

What is more remarkable in his satisfaction at the manner in which his estate had been wound up, he has been engaged by a New York firm as a wholesale traveling salesman at a salary of $2,500 per year and is home on his summer vacation.—Carter County Bugle.

The Democratic Platform.

We publish this morning the platform as enunciated by the Chicago Democratic National convention as a full exponent of the principles upon which the coming canvass is to go before the country. In it is a terrible arraignment of the Republican party, and a plain statement of what the Democracy proposes to do if they are sustained by the people. It is not ambiguous or deceitful, and is well worthy the careful consideration of all thoughtful Americans.—Lexington Gazette.

What Causes the Scarcity.

Money is scarce in the pockets of those who earn it by labor, but it is not scarce in the country. There are more than $1,600,000,000 in the United States outside the Treasury, but it is concentrated by law instead of being distributed by labor. The scarcity of money in the pockets of those who earn it is to be attributed to unjust excessive taxation, and to that alone, and if $1,600,000,000 were distributed today, the existing system and rates of taxation would soon concentrate it as it has done the existing amount in the coffers of a few. The amount of money in the United States is much greater today in proportion to population than it was at any time from 1850 to 1860. The average circulation per head for the eleven years ending with 1850 was $18.56. This was the most prosperous decade the country has ever known. Now we have $24 per head, with industrial depression. The cause of the first was low taxation, the cause of the second is high taxation. In the first period labor was left to create and keep wealth among those who earned it. In the second period taxation for private purposes is taking from labor that which it earns and giving it to the few who do not earn it.

The remedy, and the only remedy for the evil, is, to remove the present system of taxation, and supply it by one whose sole object is to collect revenue sufficient to support an economical administration of the government, and so lay the burden that each person will be required to contribute to government according to his ability and the interest he has to be protected by the government. When this is done there will be no more complaint of scarce money, and the sub-treasury will pass into history as a bubble that was exploded before it was blown up, and before it had scattered desolation and ruin over the fairest land on the face of the globe.—R. Q. Mills, in Protection and Plutocracy.

The Kentucky Building at the Fair.

One of the World's Fair Commissioners for Kentucky said to me that the plans submitted by Kentucky architects for a Kentucky building at the Fair were handsomer than any building to be erected there by any other State, except New York, and New York will spend $75,000 on its building, while the Kentucky building will cost but $15,000 or $20,000. The plan selected by the Commissioners will give a characteristic Kentucky mansion, and something that Kentuckians visiting Chicago will be proud of.

It will be fit enough home for the hospitality that Kentucky will extend to the world, but the hospitality itself will be but the empty husk of the real thing. The virtuous spurt of our Legislature in forbidding not only that liquor should be sold—a right enough provision—but that it should be "kept" at the Kentucky headquarters, will give an unrecognized vacancy to the whole layout. Unless Kentuckians individually find a way to evade the provisions and be able to set out for the visiting foreigners a little of that stuff which Jim McKenzie says, "makes temperance a virtue"—and makes temperance drunk. And then it is all to be closed on Sunday.

I am surprised that the Legislature did not require the Commissioners to arrange for religious services in the building. Perhaps it was only restrained from doing so by a consciousness of the failure of the regular morning prayer in its own case.—Morgan in Owensboro Inquirer.

Living Belle of the War.

By far the best preserved living relic of the war of 60s was picked up Monday by Mr. H. M. Rodgers, who resides at the first toll gate on the Eagleville and Salem turnpike. It was brought to our office Tuesday, and was a large dry land terrapin, with a heavy shell and an eye that could spy insects across the room. On the bottom of his shell was written in plain, legible letters the name, "W. H. Cassell, 1863, Signal Corps U. S. A., Lexington, Ky." There is also another name and some numbers cut on the lower portion of Mr. Terrapin's body, but during the twenty-nine years bustling around to get three meals a day the last name has been worn away. Mr. Rodgers still has the curio. It should be sent to the World's Fair and placed alongside other relics of the civil war.—Marionville Home Journal.

The Situation is Now Changed.

When Democrats point to the result of the election in 1888 to prove that Mr. Cleveland could not carry New York and be elected this year, it is well to remind them that several things have come to pass since 1888. Among them are: The McKinley worse-than-war tariff. The force bill.

The squandering of the surplus. The creation of a deficit. The looting of the public service. Wananaker, Raum, Elkins, et al. The Chilian scandal. The Barrundia affair. The untaxing of foreigners only. Three years and a quarter of Harrison. The discarding of Blaine.

All these and other outrages, inequities and scandals resulting in an anti-Republican majority of 1,300,000 in the elections of 1890.

Can it be imagined that either Grover Cleveland or any other Democrat will gain nothing from these events, which not only add to the issues needful to Democrats, but radically change the conditions of the impending contest in their favor?

The assumption is absurd. In addition to these things, the Democrats will gain a decided advantage from election reform laws in New York, Indiana, Connecticut, New Jersey—all the doubtful States—largely eliminating bribery and bulldozing.—New York World.

A Deadly Weapon Against Protection.

The tariff plank of the Democratic platform has not only placed in the hands of Cleveland's campaigners a deadly weapon against protectionism, but will open the way to a discussion of economic subjects rapidly coming to the front in practical politics. Political warfare, through the press or on the stump, is rarely confined to the lines laid down in the platforms of the contending parties. The people are usually in advance of their platforms. For once a National Democratic convention has frankly avowed current Democratic opinion on the tariff. A tariff for revenue only is the historic Democratic faith. From that ground the protection superstition has been attacked in season and out of season, and this in face of the fact that neither in Mr. Cleveland's messages nor the party platforms has there been a sentence which could fairly be interpreted as favoring a tariff of that character. There will be no more straddles on this question either by Presidential candidates or nominating conventions.—Chicago Herald.

The Equalization Law.

The Senate has voted to abolish the State Board of Equalization. There has been much discussion on this subject during this session, and a hard fight has been made to do away with it. It is our humble opinion that it is a wise provision, and therefore should be perpetuated. We believe it has already aided in getting property of the same kind equalized in the State. We remember that a few years ago the horses of Woodford county were not assessed as high as those of Owensley county. In Fayette and Bourbon counties there was a vast difference in the assessed value of the lands. This Board equalized these. They may sometimes make mistakes, but that is no reason that they are not of value to the State. One hundred and nineteen men assess the property of the State, and it is not possible that they can get together on the valuation of the property of the Commonwealth. Other States use this piece of machinery successfully, and why not we?—Jackson Hustler.

The Way of the Transgressor.

John Carr, of color, was tried in the Police court Saturday, charged with several crimes of a more or less aggravated nature. On the charge of assault and battery he was fined $25 and ten days in jail, and on the charge of discharging fire arms he was fined $5 and costs. On still another charge he was held in the sum of $500 to await the action of Circuit court. He was under $500 for cutting and wounding Jim Jack. This makes a total of one thousand dollars that John will be required to put up before he can again breathe the air of freedom. In default of bail he was sent to jail.—Owensville Opinion.

It is the best preparation I have ever used or heard of. I heartily recommend it to all Horsemen."

Election November 8, 1892.

CURRENT NEWS AND COMMENT.

GROVER AND ADLAI.

Grover Cleveland, magic name, Reform in taxes is his aim; Outspoken in all his plans, Victory's assured for our demands; Equal and exact justice to all, Reassures the people great or small. And our platform, "Tariff Reform," No greater issue ever was born; Democracy's now sure on top, And trench-boys will soon get "sop." Don't pin your hope to other faith— Labor Unions all this sayeth; And on the fourth of March, in '93, Inaugurate Grover and Adlai E.

Will the various Labor Unions of the country support the Hat and Rat party? Nay, verily!

ADLAI, the given name of our Vice-Presidential candidate, is taken from the Bible and means "The Just."

The report comes from Illinois that thousands of Republicans, opposed to the Force bill iniquity, will support the Democratic ticket in November.

The present session of the Kentucky Legislature has cost the tax-payers of the State over $200,000, and there being no money in the treasury, Auditor Norman has quit issuing orders upon it.

The Kentucky Senate has agreed to not adjourn until the Revenue bill shall have become a law, and there is every prospect that the middle of this month will find them still hammering away.

HON. J. M. KENDALL has our thanks for several public documents recently, among them the "Memorial addresses on the life and character of Lewis F. Watson," a representative from Pennsylvania.

The Force Bill iniquity is driving many conservative Republicans from that party to the Democratic party, and it begins to look as if the g. o. p. will not be able to muster a corporal's guard at the November obsequies over its remains.

"OUTLAW" REID will evidently injure, instead of strengthen, the Republican ticket, judging from the expressions of the thousands of Labor Unions throughout the country, and Hatty Harrison, his running mate, will find himself thus badly handicapped.

Our own Adlai says he will go to New York to receive the official notification of his nomination as Vice President on the Democratic ticket, and that in his letter of acceptance he will speak at length upon the financial questions and define his views clearly.

The coming Presidential election is sure to bring us a Presbyterian President, whether he be Republican or Democrat, Cleveland and Stevenson and Harrison and Reid all being of that religious faith, a thing which never happens before and is not likely to happen again.

THIS week we publish to the proper place the announcement of Hon. J. M. Kendall, our present Representative in the Fifty second Congress, for re-election. Since Mr. Kendall succeeded to the position he now holds, he has certainly made a very acceptable member, and that he is hard at work for his constituents is proven by his record, a part of which THE HERALD has from time to time published. Joe is too well known in this section to require any encomium from us, being a native of Morgan county, but we can promise for him that, if he should again be chosen by the Democrats and elected, he will make in the future as he has in the past, a painstaking hard-working member. A letter received from him recently brings us the information that he will soon be in Wolfe county, and then our citizens may have the pleasure of conversing with him face to face. It is quite probable, also, that he will address the citizens of the county at one or more places. This, however, will depend on circumstances, and should he conclude to do so, timely notice of the events will be given.

DAVID BENNET HILL has it within his power to secure to himself the Democratic nomination in 1896, and he made President by an overwhelming majority, and we believe he is smart enough to see it. His line of duty is plain, and if he sees it as Democrats all over the country see it he will hasten to avail of the opportunity offered him. He should take the lead in New York and see that every Democrat in that State votes for Cleveland and Stevenson. If he does this, and it will be the manly thing for him to do, there is not a Democrat between Monticello and San Diego that could beat him for the nomination in 1896. And, mark the prediction, he will do this very thing.

A. W. BILLINGS, the Chicago Democrat who offers to bet $20,000 that Cleveland and Stevenson will be the next President and Vice President of these United States, and that New York, Wisconsin and Illinois will go Democratic, might with safety add Massachusetts to his list. Gov. Russell is a wonderfully popular young Democrat and a personal friend of Mr. Cleveland, and he knows that if he should carry the Old Bay State for Mr. Cleveland he is sure of a cabinet portfolio. These things taken together are significant, to say the least.

A very amusing incident occurred at the Prohibition convention in Cincinnati last week. While the delegates marched from the Grand Hotel to Music Hall, the German band engaged to furnish music for the occasion, led the procession with the soul-stirring air, "We'll all drink stone blind! Johnny fill up the bowl!" and the cold water apostles didn't like it a bit. Indeed, one of the delegates and the leader of the band came near having a set-to over it.

The report is going the rounds that, in event of Cleveland's election, Col. W. C. P. Breckinridge, of Lexington, and the present Congressman from the Ashland district, will be likely to secure a cabinet position. It is a long time ahead to pick out Cleveland's cabinet, but he certainly could not select a more brilliant or a better man for any portfolio at his disposal. And here's hoping the silver-tongued statesman may secure a good place.

The time for the Congressional Convention is now close at hand, and those aspirants who have not yet announced in THE HERALD had better hasten to do so. THE HERALD has proved a mascot to many politicians in the past few years, and the man who ignores it can bet his socks that he'll not be in it when the nomination is made.

GEN. JOHN BIDWELL, of California, was nominated as the Prohibition candidate for President by the convention at Cincinnati on Thursday of last week, and, like the candidates of the two great parties, he was chosen on the first ballot. A sum aggregating many thousands of dollars was pledged to the support of the ticket.

During his speech before the Republican National committee, in which he urged that Clarkson be reappointed, Hon. J. Sloan Fassett observed that "Wisconsin and Illinois are in the list of doubtful States, and Iowa is by no means certain." You've got a level head for one time, Sloan.

The Prohibitionists may not be in it when the President and Vice President are elected this fall, but no one will deny that they bidwell to secure the cold-water contingency of all the older parties. See?

Commonwealth's Attorney.

We are authorized to announce JOSEPH M. KASH, of Hazel Green, as a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in the 22nd Judicial district, composed of the counties of Breathitt, Estill, Lee, Magoffin and Wolfe, subject to action of the Democratic party.

Circuit court begins at Campton on Monday.

Our old friend Fred Kellam has our thanks for a press note.

Q. C. Daniel, of Ezel, paid Hazel Green a flying visit Wednesday.

Rev. J. M. Downing preached at the Christian church in this place on Friday night last.

An original poem by our boy, Thos. C. Esterling, arrived too late for this issue but will appear next week.

The new judicial district in which we find ourselves is called "The Twenty-second," and is composed of the counties of Breathitt, Estill, Lee, Magoffin and Wolfe.

Wm. Fugate, of Gillmore creek, this county, was on Monday thrown from a mule and his head badly hurt. At last accounts he was unconscious and in a precarious condition.

The appointment made for the meeting at the Presbyterian church on Monday night last, was made without the knowledge that any other meeting had been announced for that time.

Bob Motley, who has been in Texas since last spring, returned home one day last week much pleased with that country. He brought us a pair of jack rabbits ears, for which he has our thanks.

Thos. C. Johnson, Esq., was here Tuesday and had 500 candidates' cards printed. Tom is a candidate for Circuit Judge in this district, and he says he will win the Democratic nomination or know the reason why.

The parties who were selling the questions of the State Board of Education for the examination of teachers, were Saturday arrested in Breathitt county, and placed in the jail at Jackson. The grand jury indicted them.

Daniel Ison and wife, of color, have our thanks for a nice young squirrel and a mess of fine beans. Just here we wish to observe that neither of these two are ever idle, and in consequence they always have plenty and to spare.

Our young friend H. L. Golsbey, the silver-tongued orator of the mountains, will today (Friday) speak for a prize before the Chattanooga Assembly at Lexington, and let us all hope that he may come out victorious. 'Rah for Henry!

Breck Roberts, on trial in Breathitt Circuit Court for the killing of Bowman, was Saturday sentenced to a life term in the penitentiary. The trouble arose over a game of cards, and THE HERALD gave a history of the crime at the time.

H. S. Helton, vice president of the County Union of the F. & L. U., requests us to ask that the Unions of Wolfe county send delegates to a special session of the County Union at Clifty on Friday, July 22, 1892, and the members may govern themselves accordingly.

Rev. Mr. Irvin who was announced to preach at the Presbyterian church on Monday night, came up from Stanton, but finding the meeting in progress at the Methodist church, returned to his home Tuesday. Mr. Irvin is said to be a fine preacher and several were disappointed that they did not get to hear him.

Silas Ratliffe who lives a mile below Hazel Green, on the banks of Red River, is undoubtedly the oldest citizen in our county, he being just one hundred years of age to-morrow (Saturday) July 9th, 1892. For several years he has been a charge upon the county, drawing a few dollars each month towards aiding him in eking out an existence, and the longevity of his life is, therefore, more remarkable than if he were surrounded with the comforts that would appear to make life worth living. The old man has not been in Hazel Green for about two years now, though he is able occasionally to walk about the yard of the little house occupied by his daughter, Mrs. Lizzie Hall, and with whom he makes his home. But few people in Wolfe county, we opine, are aware that we have a centenarian citizen, and THE HERALD suggests that "for sweet charity's sake" it would be the proper thing for all who are in better circumstances to chip in and make the remaining days of Mr. Ratliffe the happiest he has ever had. Only a mite from each man would materially aid him, and surely not one among them would miss it. Moreover, a little attention to his physical welfare now may prolong his life for several years. The benefits we bestow upon him will certainly not come up against us at the Great White Throne, and when we are called by me there as a witness against us if we heed not this call, Who will take the lead?

Mr. Oldfield, wife of J. G. Oldfield, of Grassy, died at the residence of her husband on Monday morning last, of intestinal catarrh. Mrs. Oldfield was the mother of a large family of children who, with the devoted husband mourn her death. The sympathy of the community in which they live, is expressed for them in their sorrow, and everywhere "She was a good woman," is heard from tender sympathizing lips. Her remains were laid to rest on Tuesday.

Silas Kash, of this place, was thrown from a wagon between Rothwell and Freuchburg on Wednesday night a week ago and was so badly cut about the head that he has been confined to a room at his uncle's, Shelby Kash, until Wednesday evening, when he came up on the back. A wheel of the wagon struck a rock and the spring seat slipped, which precipitated him to the ground with the above result.

Ben Bigstad, well-known throughout the length and breadth of Kentucky, is now a permanent resident of our town which he assures us is the prettiest that he has seen in the State. Ben is full of war reminiscences, and talks entertainingly on all topics.

See the announcement of Hon. J. M. Kash, who is a candidate for Commonwealth's Attorney in this district. 'Spec forbids a more extended notice this week, but we will have more to say next week.

The meeting which began at the M. E. Church on Saturday night is still in progress with seemingly unabated interest.

Judge Spradling, of Campton, paid our town a flying visit Wednesday.

Wonder what has become of our correspondent at Campton?

If possible, we appreciate THE HERALD

more today than ever before. THE HERALD was the first, or among the first, papers in Eastern Kentucky to advocate the nomination of Grover Cleveland for President. Now we have the man of our choice, let all common sense the boom by subscribing and renewing our subscriptions for twelve months to the HAZEL GREEN HERALD and kept posted during the campaign. By permission of the editor we will sing you a little song. We sang well before times came in fashion and will now do the best we can. This piece is set to Republican measure and will have two beats in November. Please sing with a spirit and with a Democratic understanding:

Our platform is out,
Our banner is in the air,
We fear no danger
With Grover and Adlai.

CHUCKS—Grover and Adlai,
Grover and Adlai,
We fear no force bill
With Grover and Adlai.

We ask the Republican
Who are sick of hard times,
To quit the Peoples party,
And fall into our lines.
With Grover and Adlai.

They are friends to free schools,
To the farmers and all,
Vote for them, my countrymen,
And let the force bill fall.
Grover and Adlai.

If the Republicans are successful
They will sit back and laugh
To see the honest farmer
Take four dollars for his calf.
With Grover and Adlai.

But if we are victorious
The Republicans will shed a tear
To see the honest farmer
Get forty dollars for his steer.
With Grover and Adlai.

Their theory is right,
Their doctrine is true,
Because they stand
Under the red, white and blue.
Grover and Adlai.

And now, good people,
Upon you I do call,
March to the front
And we will elect them this fall.
With Grover and Adlai.

And when they are elected
And taken their seats,
We'll cry out, Victory, boys,
The Republicans are beat.
By Grover and Adlai.

Then hard times will disappear
Like smoke before the wind,
We'll cry out, Victory, boys,
A dozen years we must pass
Before another Republican'll run.
Against Cleveland and Stevenson.

Then the money will return
The Billion-dollar Congress spent
Back to the U. S. Treasury
As though it had been lent.
With Cleveland and Stevenson.

Physicians Couldn't Cure. X

SEBASTIANVILLE, Hamilton Co., Ohio, June, 1892.

One bottle of Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic cured me of my nervousness and was greatly beneficially for 8 months to relieve me of nervous debility. W. BURNHED, JR.

I can sincerely say that Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic has acted wonderfully; since my toy consumption and loss of sleep and the slightest symptoms of fits and is getting stout and hearty, every one is surprised at the result, because I had bought a bottle of medicine from New York at $1.00 per bottle which did me no good.

KANSAS CITY, Mo., Oct. 8, '90.

Used Pastor Koening's Nerve Tonic for nervousness and debility, and was greatly benefited by same. It had the desired effect.
